Journal of Food and Clinical Nutrition is an international peer reviewed journal that publishes recent research developments made in the field of food science and nutrition biology. Journal of Food and Clinical Nutrition is glad to disclose that it has published its 2nd volume in the year 2019. It is open access journal which releases its issues in the month of June and December without any delay. Its editorial board members are very active that makes issue release easy. Many esteemed professionals and professors work as editorial team members for this journal who are from different parts of the world.

Our journal includes research, review articles, case reports, short commentaries etc. We are releasing articles biannually without any delay. All this is possible because of the authors and the editorial team members and reviewers who made the peer-review process in qualitative way. Authors can easily submit their article by the link provides in the journal home page. Soon after receiving the manuscript the article will be sent for preliminary quality check and the result will be known within few hours of initial submission whether the article is accepted or rejected. On an average the article acceptance or rejection will be informed to author time to time after initial submission.

Editorial tracking system is provided for the Authors, editors, reviewers and publishers to track their manuscript flow. Authors can easily submit their manuscript in the editorial tracking system of journal through the link provided on the home page of the journal. Authors can easily track their manuscript status through the credentials given to author at the time of submission. As it is the peer reviewed process our reviewers play an important role in providing review comments of the article to proceed further. In this instance I would like to show the token of gratitude to the reviewers and also the editorial team who is working on the journal for final editing and proofing of the manuscripts before publication.
